

The 3 R's For More EFFICIENT

Animal Research:

• Replacement

• Refinement

• Reduction

Replacement

Refers to methods that replace the need to use animals. This could be computer models or simulations.

Refinement

Refers to ways to reduce pain or distress that the animals may be experiencing during experiments

Reduction

Refers to the effort to use a smaller quantity of animals in experiments.